If I specify a perspective projection, is that the same as the default orthographic projection used if I use gluLookAt in the model view matrix? A: If I specify a perspective projection, is that the same as the default orthographic projection used if I use gluLookAt in the model view matrix? No, if you use GluLookAt, you'll be doing a perspective projection for the viewport. If I don't specify an orthographic projection mode when gluLookAt is used in the model view matrix, what projection mode is used? The projection mode is a precondition for the GluLookAt call, not an effect of the call. You need to call gluLookAt. Q: Extracting values in a numpy array Consider a numpy array of 10d vectors (see array at end of code): origvec = np.array([[0.0, 0.0, 0.0], [1.0, 1.0, 1.0]]) np.hstack(origvec.T) array([[0.0, 0.0, 0.0],

Playing as one of the world's best professional footballers on FIFA is about more than being the best - it's about competing for your club and country, with a realistic football experience featuring every nuance and detail in one game. Successfully completing each mode earns FUT Points that can then be spent in FIFA Ultimate Team™, including coins, players and packs that contain a wide range of cards and players. Or, you can spend these FUT Points in game modes including Knockout, Pass, League, Cup and Career. EA SPORTS FUT Series - FIFA Ultimate Team™, is where the fun begins. Each FIFA Ultimate Team™ player has their own unique "Ultimate Teams" page, where you can watch their ratings rise and fall, and collect new cards. A brand new FUT Draft™-style interface means you can build your teams around the real names of the players, their FUT Ratings, position, skills and more. You can also create your own team with any of the FUT Contents that you collect within the game. To support players from all over the world, future content updates for FUT will include rosters from worldwide leagues such as the English Premier League, Spanish La Liga, French Ligue 1, Italian Serie A and German Bundesliga. A new Career Mode allows you to start your own club, manage your players and build your reputation in the transfer market. It will even keep track of the players' skills, making sure they only get better every time they play. New Presentation A new presentation brings a new look to the most loved game on the planet with refined visual elements, a new crowd for more realistic noise and gameplay elements and a host of new animations on the players. New Kit Options There are new Kit Options, including the ability to purchase a new home kit with your player's player name and new and unique away kits for each team. You can also personalise your player's presentation with your preferred kit, changing your kit as you progress through the Career Mode.
